

Course Name GNDS 380 Blackness in Motion Contact Hours Lecture: Wednesday 2:30 – 5:30pm	Course Instructor Amanda Lyn agl4@queenu.ca
Course Description This is an introductory course to Black mobility that provides a multi-scalar examination of human movement from the body (physical movement, dance, sports, or play) to the global (global migration, tourism, and borders). Through this examination of Black mobility, students will be encouraged to explore how movement, leisure, and space are embodied to shape Black consciousness and Black understandings of being. Students will engage with scholarship from Black geography, physical cultural studies, Black studies, and gender studies to understand the ways in which racialized mobility is experienced through an interdisciplinary lens.	Required Course Materials Kincaid J. (1988). A small place (1st ed.). All other readings are available through the library's e-reserve.
Course Objectives By the end of the course, Gain foundational with race, gender Critically examine understanding of Develop an interdisc mobility. Collaboratively an Engage in embodi shapes cultural me	Course Evaluation Active participation 15% Annotation and reading commentary 20% Group facilitations 15% Diaspora in Movement Reflection 20% Final Project Presentation 5% Final Project 25%