

Course Description

An introductory survey to human sexuality, including different theoretical perspectives on human sexuality, the research methodology used to study human sexuality, and sexual behaviours, interests and responses.

Sexuality is something that affects virtually everyone, in one way or another. Because of its ubiquitous nature, sexuality is an issue that requires understanding. In this course, we explore basic information about sex and sexuality, including the history of sex research, theories of sexuality, sexual anatomy, sexual development, and the nature of sexual response. We also discuss potential controversial issues, such as fertility, contraception and abortion, sexually transmitted infections, and the process. Please consider the nature of the course material before deciding to continue in this course.

Note: If you suffer from issues related to sexuality, you will likely not benefit personally from this class other than gaining information. If you are in need of resources, please contact the instructor.

Late Policy

For all written assignments, the late policy is as follows: for each day late, 20% of the obtained mark on the assignment will be deducted, unless the instructor is aware of a documented accommodation or extenuating circumstance as soon as possible before the deadline. Please see the section entitled "Academic considerations for students in extenuating circumstances" for more information. Failure to abide by this policy will result in a grade of zero for the missed assessment.

The decision of whether to reweight or reschedule an assessment is made in conjunction with the student, taking into account the nature of the issue that prevented the writing of the originally-scheduled assessment and practical issues related to the course. Please email the teaching assistant and Dr. Pukall as soon as possible once you know that you will miss an assessment.

activities (such as questionnaires and exit tickets).

This feedback enables the team to make any adjustments necessary to improve the online learning environment. Additional student feedback will be sought throughout the course. All surveys are anonymous, and directly related to activities, assessments, and other course material.

Netiquette

In any course you often communicate with your peers and teaching team through electronic communication. You are expected to use the utmost respect in your dealings with your colleagues when participating in activities, discussions and online communication.

Here is a list of netiquette guidelines. Please read them carefully and use them to guide your communication in this course and beyond.

1. Make a personal commitment to learn about, understand, and support your peers.
2. Assume the best of others and expect the best of them.
3. Acknowledge the impact of oppression on the lives of other people and make sure your writing is respectful and inclusive.
4. Recognize and value the experiences, abilities, and knowledge each person brings.
5. Pay close attention to what your peers write before you respond. Think through and re-read your writings before you post or send them to others.
6. It's ok to disagree with ideas, but do not make personal attacks.
7. Be open to be challenged or confronted on your ideas and challenge others with the intent of facilitating growth. Do not demean or embarrass others.
8. Encourage others to develop and share their ideas.

Queen's Email

The university communicates with students via Queen's email. Please check your email regularly to ensure you do not miss important information related to your course.
