

Get your colouring pencils ready and begin the mathematical map adventure!!!

It is very important to know how to colour a map correctly in order to make it easier for people to find different places. For centuries cartographers have figured out that the minimum number of colours required to colour any flat map is four; however, from the mathematics point of view,

---

---

Can you believe THIS is math?

---

Can you believe THIS is math?