

Senate Research Report
September 25, 2018

Message from Interim Vice-Principal (Research) Kimberly A. Woodhouse

I regret that I cannot join you for the first Senate meeting of the academic year, but I am pleased to be able to provide an update of the various activities in the portfolio.

Importantly, as the Strategic Research Plan was approved in April 2018, we can now focus on the institutional priorities outlined within it, and work with faculties to advance new and emerging research areas, identify strategies for achieving funding successes in these areas and inform decisions on areas for hiring. Other priority areas include:

- x increasing industry engagement and commercialization,
- x

The Queen's National Scholar (QNS) program is designed to enrich teaching and research at the university while also supporting faculty renewal and diversity and inclusion. (S) (b) (6) (203812 (S) (b) (6) (1) (728(a))
